Discrimination against the young?

Again we're having the problem of stores refusing to let students in unless they're sure it's after school hours. . . but the trouble is, they don't always know when the school day ends. This happened last week to a group of 8th graders from St. Lucy's at the Family Fun Center on Winchester. I'm a school employee and I had to go over there and verify that it was after school. School was over at noon that week. The people at Family Fun Center said the Police Department advised them to do this, but when I called the police they acted unaware of this. This must be a common problem because lots of schools have different dismissal times or minimum days. So how can the stores know for sure when it's "after school hours?" This is just another instance of discrimination toward a group of people. We're taking too many rights from young people.

A supporter of students' rights

EDITOR'S NOTE: According to Family Fun Center owner Ron Smith, "My daughter (who was in charge that day) was not informed nor were we informed there was a minimum day for St. Lucy's School and we firmly believe that during school hours children belong in school. It is our policy to exclude all school age children from our premises during their school hours. We are aware of normal school hours, however, unless we are notified, we don't know of any changes in regular school scheduling. Sister Ann was contacted after this incident and will inform us in the future of shortened school days." In this case, others, the local business owner seems to be caught between a rock and a hard place. School officials make it clear to owners that they don't want any students served during normal school hours. Students and some parents feel kids shouldn't have

City earmarks $1.4 million for projects

THE OLD Campbell grammar school property will get the bulk of federal housing and community development funds over the next three years, city officials decided Monday night.

A close second is the San Tomas area where $301,000 had been earmarked for public works improvements, $100,000 for low income family housing assistance and part of the $250,000 slated for housing rehabilitation.

Some of the dozens of San Tomas residents attending the public hearing Monday night weren't happy with the city's priorities.

"The Campbell grammar school gets close to 50 percent of the funds in the next three years," commented Bob Mahrer, "I feel those funds would be more beneficial in other areas; specifically the San Tomas area."

The budget adopted by city councilmen Monday night on a 3-2 vote includes $200,000 yearly over the next three years for the old grammar school. With the $275,000 already earmarked for acquisition and renovation of the site earlier, that brings the total available for the vacant school property to $875,000.

THE NUMBER one requests by those attending the HCD hearing Monday was that Pollard road be improved and that San Tomas School be retained as a neighborhood center after its closing set for June of 1979.

Many members of the audience wore large, yellow buttons proclaiming, "San Tomas Community Center Advocates."

Joann Fairbanks, representing the group, asked for a show of support from the audience for the San Tomas neighborhood school center proposal. More than 40 people stood up.

"This group is planning to continue its efforts," Fairbanks told councilmen.

Councilman Rusty Hammer told the group the city is not "locked into" the three year plan adopted Monday night. Changes in funding priorities could be made later, he explained.

Open space flap

Schools oppose new zoning

OVER THE objections of school district representatives the Campbell City Council held a first reading Monday night on a new ordinance that would create a new Open Space (O-S) zone in the city.

Among resources listed in the city's new Open Space Element are the school properties within the city limits. That was the bone of contention with Campbell elementary, Moreland and Campbell high school district officials.

While no specific school sites have yet been designated O-S, school officials are concerned.

Wade Hover, attorney for the Campbell Union High School District, termed the new element and zoning ordinance, "The handwriting on the wall."

"If you want to buy available school property later its okay," Hover said, "as long as its as fair market value."

THE CONCERN with school officials is that O-S zoning would reduce the market value of school properties without any assurance from the city that it would buy the surplus sites.

The vote on the new Open Space Element to the General Plan was unanimous Monday night.

On the new O-S zoning area first reading however, it was a split vote with Mayor Dean Chamberlin and Councilman Ralph Doetsch opposed.

"There were some serious questions raised by the school districts," Chamberlin commented in opposing the motion. The Mayor is an administrator for the Campbell high school district.

Speaking against the proposal were Superintendent Walt Hauss of the Campbell elementary district, Hover and Assistant Superintendent Jim Gillespie of the high school district. A letter of opposition from the Moreland School District board was also read that night.

IN THE new element public-semi-private open space is spelled out as city and county parks, school play areas, flood control channels and possibly church grounds.

Part II of that element states the city should "acquire school sites when they become available in areas that could be justified for park and open space purposes."

None of the school officials were objecting to Campbell's desire to protect its undeveloped areas Monday night. But at least one disagreed with that definition.

Those school sites are not un-

A Dickens of a fair

Cambellites Lyn Kern and Bob Stanton are two of the colorfully garbed Dickens characters who will appear at the St. Lucy's School Dickens Fair this Saturday and Sunday, November 18 and 19. The fair, which will include a Christmas bazaar, children's games and luncheon will be held at the Winchester at Budd avenue church school. A preview party, with wine and cheese tasting, is set for Saturday between 8 and 10 p.m. Admission is $2 a person. Sunday hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and there is no admission charge for the bazaar. A pancake breakfast will be served from 8 a.m. to noon and a luncheon from noon to 2 p.m.

New game craze can become obsession

Dragons and wizards in Campbell?

By DANA GILLIGAN

AN "OUTSIDER" SEES only books, papers, some funny-shaped dice and miniature figures, and a wild sort of gleam in the players' eyes. Their warriors, clerics, and wizards, hobbits, dwarves, and elves are busy hunting treasure, confronting monsters, and fighting battles.

It's the latest rage in games around San Jose and the Bay Area called "D&D" or "Dungeons and Dragons."

For all the greed and warmongering behind those gleaming eyes, the game is curiously free of squabbles.

Keeping everyone in line is a game referee known as the "D.M." or "Dungeon Master." He is also the one who designs the dungeon or "upper terrain" that the characters enter, and he adapts the rules to his own purposes.

The game can become quite complex, limited only by the D.M.'s imagination and time. Players find it fascinating and soon become "hooked."

The game never ends. There are no winners. Only an accumulation of "experience points," imaginary wealth and power.

In between playing sessions, "D&Ders" pore over the volumes of books and rules on fantasy wargaming, plus any literature they can get their hands on related to the Medieval era, mythology and fantasy from all cultures and ages. Especially popular is Tolkein's Hobbit and Lord the Rings series, one of the original sources of inspiration for the game.

"D&Ders" ALSO spend hours on the phone with each other — getting information, making deals, planning strategy with such strange conversations as "How much will you pay me to be captain of your army?" or "Want to buy a dragon?"

As they begin to live in this fantasy world, bewildered family members begin to wonder if they are actually becoming disturbed.

Chores may go neglected. Grades may begin to slip. But the game goes on.

And new recruits join the ranks every day.

It all started eight years ago with a small group in St. Paul-Minneapolis. Four years later two of the players, Dave Arneson and Gary Gygax published a three-volumned guide to the game called "Dungeons and Dragons."

Arneson was a featured speaker at a recent convention attended by over 2,000 wargamers called "Pacific Encounters — 1978" held over the Labor Day weekend at the Hotel Villa in San Mateo.

"My claim to fame," said Arneson, "is that I've been dungeoning for eight years. No one else has been doing it that long.

"Yet in four years I have sold about 75,000 copies of the original three-volumed set, jumping from 2,000 the first year to 40,000 this year.

IN DECEMBER 1977 Larry Duffield opened a shop in Campbell called the "Game Table" to give game fans a place not only to buy their wares, but a place to meet other players and play together.

The "Game Table" offers chess and backgammon tournaments and all kinds of board games, but it has become particularly popular among "D&Ders" because, as Arneson pointed out, very seldom can a player pick up "D&D" on his own. He needs a mentor, someone to lead him through the intricacies of the game.

"Three years ago," says Duffield, "there was only one store in the Santa Clara Valley that provided wargaming. Now there are at least seven major stores, and most hobby shops have expanded their wargaming department. Fantasy is very much in demand, and so are the miniatures.

"I'd say I have about 200 regular fantasy players at the Game Table. I would guess there are between 8,000 to 10,000 fantasy game enthusiasts in the Bay Area.

"It's very popular at San Jose State, and somewhat less popular, but still quite respectable, at Santa Clara University, he explained.

Why is fantasy gaming so popular in the Bay Area? Duffield says around San Francisco there has always been a special interest in the occult, in the bits and pieces of arcana. (Arcana he explained as mysterious, but trivial information.)

"I mean, where else but San Francisco do you find a practicing chapter of Druids?" he laughed.

ONE OF THE most recent developments in fantasy games is, in fact, solitaire dungeons on video tape. Here the computer becomes the referee.

"Video games should do a lot to popularize D&D," claims Dave Arneson, "because it has the advantage of leaving the tedious, time-consuming work to the computer."

According to Arneson, there are three traits of a good game master — being a good story teller, having a good imagination, and having a talent in psychological warfare.

One local game master who fits the bill is Cynthia Leong from Campbell. While most "D&D" games baffle the uninitiated, Leong's games are entertaining and dramatic even to an outside observer.

"I try above all to make my games amusing for the players. I like to interact with my players, adapting to them, creating adventures on the spot, adding little 'tweeks' (by which she means twists) to the game."

More conventional "D&Ders" raise their eyebrows at Leong's methods. When she opens a game she tells the players that none of her monsters, characters, or situations are in the books, and that the usual point systems determing actions will be of no use whatsoever.

"SOME PLAYERS JUST can't handle the insecurity of it all, and they pack up and leave. But those who stay love it.

"I scoff at rule books, but the dictionary is my crutch." She uses it much like a dice roll to determine events and create characters in a game. When something new is needed, she lets the dictionary fall open at random, picks out an interesting word and creates something out of it.

Her inventiveness facinates and delights her players. At the "Game Table" she is very much in demand. At the recent convention in San Mateo, her game was the first to be filled.

Leong is not only an inventive story teller, but she is also well aware of the psychological aspects of the game.

"FANTASY ROLEPLAYING," she says, "is a chance to relieve pressure, to get angry constructively. It's a chance to do illegal things without paying for the consequences.

"If the game helps you learn something about yourself, or release potentially dangerous emotions, it's worthwhile. But most of all, it must be fun. When I see my players having a good time, for me it's worthwhile."

Cynthia Leong is only one of many walking among us. So all you hobbit-like creatures in your cozy little habitats, beware of magical wizards who might entice you with promise of adventure and treasure into dungeons filled with goblins and dragons.

School districts concerned over open zoning

developed, open sapce, Hover argued. He emphasized the high school board feels strongly that the city should take no action that would "damage or deteriorate" the real property in the Campbell school district.

"WE DON'T know why these (school) agencies have been singled out for some sort of a holding zone for the City of Campbell," Hover added.

Speaking in favor of the new element and zoning designation were Don Hebard, former planning commissioner who served on the committee that drafted the ordinance, and Bruce Tichinin, a Morgan Hill attorney.

Tichinin has been involved with the El Toro Association of Morgan Hill which halted development of the foothill area after a successful challange of that city's open space plan.

"Failure to include the school sites (in the open space element) would be a failure to carry out the mandate of the legislature," Tichinin told the council. He added that he feels retaining school sites as open space would "preserve them for their highest and best use."

School sites which could be affected by the new zoning ordinance (if enacted in the future) include Coventry School in the Moreland district Campbell and Westmont high in the Campbell high district and several sites in Campbell elementary, including Hamilton and the old Campbell grammar school (now unused) and San Tomas School slated for closing next year.

Final report on school site due

A comprehensive engineering study of the old Campbell Grammar School will be presented by Hugh B. Brewster, consulting engineer, at the Monday, November 20 meeting of the Grammar School Task Force. The group meets in the employee lounge of City Hall at 7:30 p.m.

Brewster, who conducted a preliminary study of the vacant school site at Campbell and Winchester blvd., reported earlier the structure is in good condition and can be restored for community use for under $900,000.

The City Council authorized the more detailed engineering study.

Along with Brewster's report, staff will speak on a zoning and traffic study relating to the site, operating and maintenance costs and possible rental rates for the surplus site.

The city has earmarked about $850,000 from federal housing and community development funds, through 1981-82 to be spent for acquisition and renovation of the site for use as a nieghborhood center.

Pollard road hazards

Parents jam council chamber Monday night

By PAT SAFFORD

PARENTS OF ROLLING Hills junior high students are very concerned over the hazardous condition of Pollard road; the route many students take each day to school. And they have reason for alarm.

So far this year there have been three accidents involving school children along the stretch of Pollard, between Quito road and Burrows. The latest mishap claimed the life of 6 year old Cole Hammen, a kindergarten student at San Tomas School on November 2.

But they are doing more than petition city officials for action. Parents plan to start a person to person campaign among property owners along Pollard to persuade them to grant easement rights so that road can be widened and improved.

They are also concerned about the vacant fields behind the school (the West Valley Freeway corridor area) that has become a haven for drug trafficers and sex offenders.

IN RECENT YEARS there has been about one injury accident involving students going to or from school about every other year. This year the statistics are grim.

The first this year involved a Rolling Hills student struck by a car on Pollard near the Rinconada Hills development. That boy, who suffered severe fractures of the leg and shoulder, is still out of school after two months, according to Principal Bob Turk.

The second involved a young Rolling Hills bicyclist traveling on Hacienda ave. who was hit by a car. He has recovered.

Last month a delegation from the school attended a public hearing at San Tomas School to voice concern over that undeveloped stretch of road. A week later little Cole Hammen was killed.

According to Pricipal Ralph Dill of San Tomas School Cole normally attended nursery school each morning and was transported to and from school by the private school. But on the morning of November 2 his grandparents were here visiting from Wisconsin and he and his older brother, Jay, a second grader, were to take the school bus instead from a stop near their home on Calla Marguerita.

INSTEAD, DILL SAID, the two decided to walk to school and Cole ran into the street. He was hit by a car and suffered a broken neck, head and internal injuries. Treated by Campbell paramedics at the scene, he died later on arrival at the hospital.

While his heart was still beating when admitted to the hospital, a neurosurgeon said later brain death had been almost instantaneous.

"There is just no room for error on Pollard road," declared Bob Turk earlier this week.

He and members of the Rolling Hills Safety Committee and supporters turned out in force for the Monday night council meeting to ask for a stop light and new pedestrian crossing at the corner of More avenue and Pollard. They brought with them more than 30 letters from parents and nearby residents citing the safety problem and asking for help.

THE COUNCIL REFERRED the request to staff for a detailed review of the situation and a report back on possible action at the next city council session.

But the problem on Pollard road isn't one which any single city can solve. That area includes parts of Campbell, Los Gatos, Saratoga and the unincorporated county area.

The school safety committee met recently with those jurisdictions and have received support from the county to help spearhead a local improvement district to widen at least part of that road.

They have also received support from PG&E who owns part of the land near the railroad tracks.

In the coming weeks parents and school staff will be meeting with county staffers to learn the ropes of helping get signatures on a local improvement district east of the railroad tracks.

They have also contacted state and local safety councils for suggested ways to improve the situation in the meantime.

The school is doing its part by starting a safety training program for students.

A SECOND, AND serious, concern for Rolling Hills parents is with that "no man's land" area north of the school.

According to Turk, there have been several rapes or attempted rapes in that area and many indecent exposures.

"Too many to count, infact," Turk says.

Last year three Rolling Hills students handled an exposure incident in a novel way. When a man exposed himself, Turk said, the three girls picked up rocks and threw them at him, scaring him away.

While the danger of perverts is not minimized, Turk feels the Pollard road conditions are still number one.

"You know, I think I'd rather have our girls walk along the railroad tracks and take a chance of having some man expose himself than to try to walk along Pollard road."

Drug sales in that area are another story.

Turk estimates that 90 percent of the drugs coming into and around the school are sold along that weed choked land behind the school.

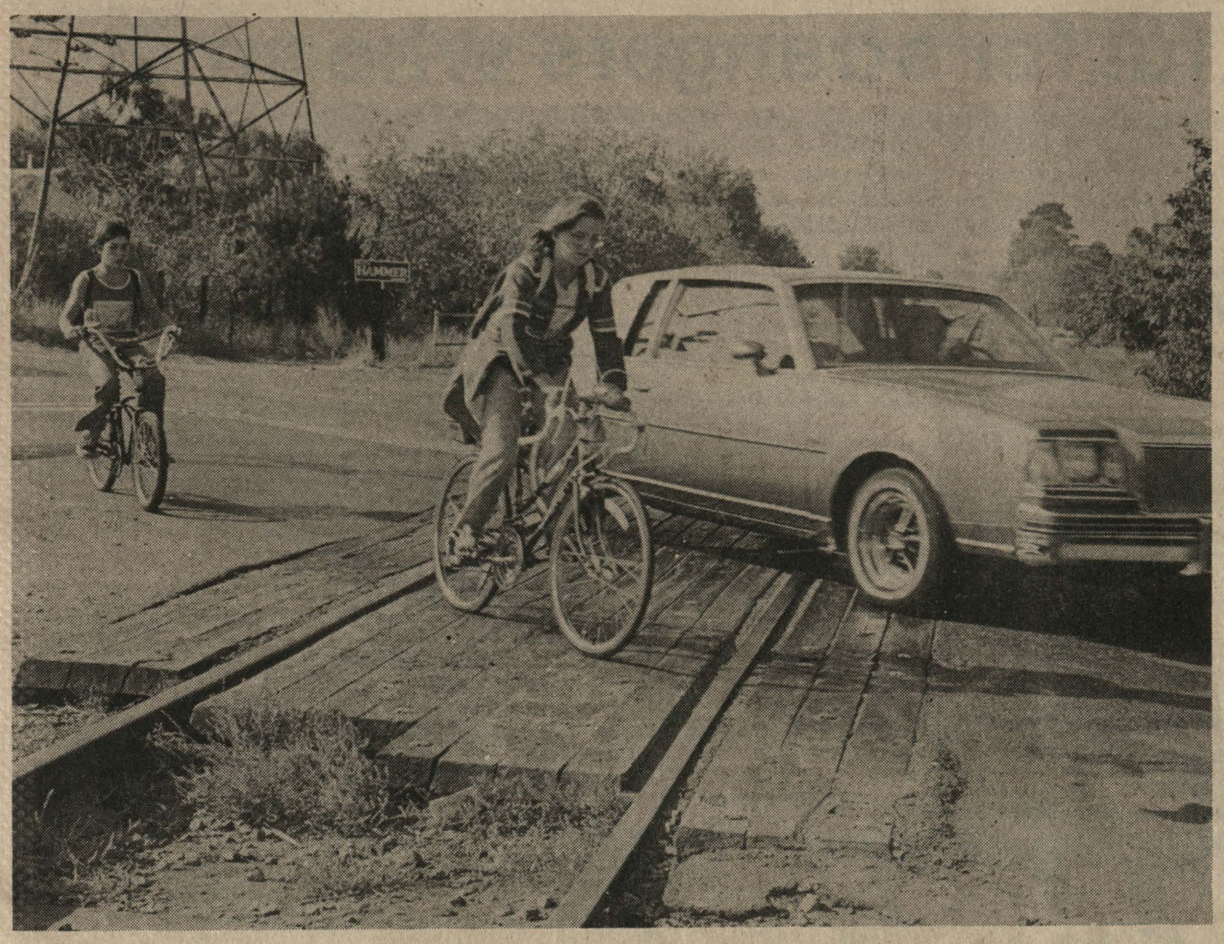
WHILE LAST YEAR there were hard drugs sold there, this year so far Turk feels it's mostly marajuana sales and use.

"That area is first for drug sales," Turk said, "second is Narc Park (Rinconada Park behind the golf course)."

At the Mondaynight meeting Turk commended Campbell staffers and the paramedics for their service in recent years. He also acknowledged the problem parents face in doing something about the situation when there are so many jurisdictions involved.

But he, and others, hope the impetus for improvement will come from Campbell.

"That area is a nightmare for a principal," he added.



PARENTS and school officials in the Rolling Hills and San Tomas school areas are concerned over the condition of Pollard road, heavily traveled by youngsters every school day. A particularily bad spot is at the railroad crossing on Pollard east of More avenue where motorists, bicyclists and pedestrians share the road. Monday night there was standing room only at City Hall as people turned out to ask Campbell's help in improving that road and for a signal light at the More-Pollard intersection.

Building tops $25.5 million

Twelve new single family homes, valued at $609,600 were the big ticket item on the October building report for the City of Campbell.

Total value for the month was $961,183 bringing the yearly total to date to $25.6 million, almost double that of last year at this time; $14.4 million.

Largest commercial project for the month was that of Donald Imwalle at 471 E. Campbell ave. valued at $153,334.

There has been a lot of work going on at the Campbell Shopping Center recently. The roof has been fixed and part of the parking lot has been repaved. You did the story telling about the problem with the condition of the building earlier this year. I thought

EDITOR'S NOTE: Our photographer will be out this week to get the pictures.

I sure notice that the quality of the paper has gone down recently. There just isn't as much local news in it and it's lost that personal touch. I don't like it.

A Reader

EDITOR'S NOTE: You're right. Part of the problem was with staffing the rest was with the editor who had a family emergency and has been away from her desk a lot for the last two weeks. Speaking of desks, we now have one in the Campbell Chamber of Commerce office, 328 E. Campbell ave. and will have someone there part time if you have any questions, stories, etc. We expect to have that office manned part time by the end of the month. In the meantime, any news releases can be dropped off there. The chamber office is on Campbell avenue, between First street and Central.

Thankful for strangers who smile

By PAT SAFFORD

Since this is the season for giving thanks I sat down and made up my own personal list last week. You may want to make up your own . . . or feel free to borrow any of these.

It doesn't hurt once in a while to think of the things in life that bring us joy.

I am thankful for the lavender rhododendron that blooms every winter without fail. For the grow lights that let me get a head start on spring and for the spotted toad that plays hide and seek with me in the garden each summer.

I am thankful for my fine friends and relatives. And for those special people who are both.

I am thankful for permanent press, for self-timing ovens and for the new synthetic clothes that don't have to be drycleaned.

I am thankful for a beautiful sunset, the smell of fresh mown grass and for the sound of the sparrows scolding each other in the large fir tree in our neighbor's yard.

I am thankful for my car's gas gauge that has at least three more gallons in the tank when it registers "empty."

I am thankful for my active family who greet life with unflagging spirit, enthusiasm and the belief that everything will always turn out right (I'm not always so sure).

I am thankful for my own phone so I can get calls once in a while.

I am thankful for strangers who smile when you pass them in the crowded lobby of a department store.

I am thankful for a husband who says, "great dinner" when I serve him leftovers.

And this year I have a very special reason to be thankful.

I am thankful for my oldest son who was seriously injured in an accident 17 days ago. I am thankful he is alive, he is making a great recovery, and, after a severe head injury, he is learning to speak again.

His first word when he awoke after five days in a coma was for me. I was asking him to try and cough.

"No!" he said.

I am thankful for the word, "No."

Trustee blasts handling of high school board vacancy

WHILE CAMPBELL HIGH school district trustees were due to fill the vacancy on the Board of Trustees Tuesday night, one official made it clear he doesn't approve of the way it was handled.

"My concern is regarding the gross neglect in following Campbell Union High School District policy procedures" declared Trustee Mac Martinez in a letter to the board last week. "Either we follow our procedures or we change them!"

Martinez, who was out of town serving on an accreditation committee at Imperial Valley College, said he would have abstained from the vote Tuesday, had he been there.

An original field of 14 applicants was later narrowed to five semi-finalists and then to three finalists to be interviewed by the board November 14. Making that selection was a committee made up of Board President Ray Silva and Trustee Steve Tedesco and parent leaders from the eight district high schools.

THE THREE FINALISTS, all present or former school trustees, include Sarah Dunham, Dorothy Goble and C (Sonny) Towner.

One of Martinez's concerns outlined in his letter was with the confusion over the deadline for accepting applications for the vacancy created with the resignation of Craig Smith. The San Jose police officer left to accept a scholarship at an Oregon university.

"As you will recall, I took a verbal stand on the issue of policy procedures at the board meeting of October 24," Martinez said. "Since then, events have transpired that make that stand even more adamant. I cannot, in good conscience, participate in the board's selection tonight."

The board first discussed the vacancy on October 11 when they learned Smith planned to resign (His actual letter of resignation came in later). Originally, the board issued a notice which appeared in local newspapers on October 17 and 19 calling for applications to be returned by October 20 if possible. That date was later extended to the following Friday.

"THE AMBIGUOUS date in the original announcement of vacancy (resulted) in correct information not being disseminated to all," Martinez charged. He also said the board failed to adhere to their policy of allowing 10 days in which to apply.

Before the final deadline some applicants were informed their applications had been reviewed and they would not be considered further for the opening. Martinez also questioned this procedure.

And finally, candidates who applied before October 24 were not screened in the same manner as those who applied earlier, Martinez said.

"My refusal to actively participate is my only means of protest," the trustee declared, adding he would cast a vote in the case of a deadlock over the appointment.

Under state law the board has 30 days from the date of the announced vacancy in which to appoint a replacement or a special election must be called.

Newsbriefs

PARK NEEDS LIGHTED FIELD

The Campbell Parks and Recreation Commission has reaffirmed its recommendation that proceeds from the sale of city property at Grant street and Third be sued for a lighted softball field at John D. Morgan Park.

Earlier, the City Council asked that the group reconsider their recommendation.

The Campbell Kiwanis Club, which originally donated the property to the city, unanimously concurred with the commission's recommendation, according to Kiwanian Pete Edwards. The club's stipulation in the original deed was that, when the property was sold, proceeds be used for recreation purposes.

Lights for the softball field are now included in Phase III of the park project.

LIBRARY WANTS COOKIE RECIPES

The Campbell library is seeking Christmas cookie recipes for a special holiday program slated for December.

Locallites are asked to bring their recipes to the 70 N. Central ave. library by November 20. They will be printed together with other recipes on sheets to be distributed at a December 6 program featuring Peggy Baker giving a demonstration in cookie making.

PILGRIM MYERS TO SPEAK

The Rev. Anthony Wayne Myers will portray John Robinson, the historical Pilgrim divine, at the Thanksgiving services this Sunday, November 19 at the Congregational Church of Campbell, 400 W. Campbell ave. The service starts at 10 a.m.

The dramatic monlogue is part of the annual holiday service which also includes a children's food processional, choral music and sharing of staples and fresh produce for the organization, Friends Outside.

Anyone in the community who would like to contribute food for the collection may bring it to the church daily between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

SELLING YOUR HOUSE?

An informational meeting, "How to Sell Your Own Home" will be held at West Valley College on December 2.

The 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. session by William Langan will cover marketing, contracts, financing, escrow, real property law and real estate training.

For information call 379-9415 weekdays.

HIGH SCHOOL IN EUROPE

A 29-day European study tour is being planned for Campbell area high school students next summer through the Pacific American Institute.

The summer school tour will include stops in Athens, Rome, Florence, Mykonos, Paris and London, among others. Total cost is $1,980.

For more information call the Campbell Union High School District offices weekdays at 371-0960, ext. 26.

CHINESE LUNCH FETES SPECIAL WEEK

A Chinese lunch, prepared by Marguerite Sue's Chinese cooking class, is planned to celebrate World Mutual Service Week at the YWCA Cambrian Center, 4343 Leigh ave.

The lunch is set for Friday, November 17 and reservations can be made by calling the center at 269-7534.

Friends outside lend a helping hand

WARD PETERSON, a retired Lockheed engineer, goes to the Main Jail in San Jose every day. He doesn't go because he committed a crime of any sort, but instead, he goes to help meet the inmates' many needs. He is a volunteer Jail Interviewer for Friends Outside, a United Way, non-profit agency committed to helping inmates and their families.

Since the Main Jail is a men's facility, Ward gets lots of requests to contact girl friends, fiancees, and wives. He has been a "go-between" for several inmates.

On one occasion, he cut through reams of red tape to send flowers to an inmate's fiancee. This involved gaining permission from authorities to have access to the inmate's money for the florist bill. He has expedited quite a few jail weddings as well. (Jail wedding ceremonies are performed by a clergyman with telephones to penetrate the glass walls in the visitors' center).

In another case, an inmate hadn't heard the outcome of his wife's operation; Ward's quick phone call to the surgeon involved eased his anxieties immeasurably.

Ward made sure an inmate with a head wound (allegedly inflicted by another inmate in an out of state facility) was given proper medical care.

"I have 80-90 'cases' I see every week," Ward said, "and each time I come to visit them, more inmates have arrived with whole new sets of problems to be resolved. Although two volunteer SJSU students also do interviews here, it still isn't enough to adequately meet all these inmates' — and their families' — needs."

THERE ARE over 1,000 inmates in Santa Clara County to be served by the Friends Outside Office. Friends Outside has grown into a statewide organization, with 19 other offices, which also actively serves County Jail's inmates and state prisoners. Although they all cooperate with each other, they operate autonomously. Friends Outside is not government-subsidized, and operates primarily under United Way Funds ($71,242 allotted last year) and individual contributions.

Before Friends Outside emerged 22 years ago, if an inmate in one of Santa Clara County's jails wanted information on arranging bail, or their wedding ceremony, or sending presents or assistance to their loved ones, they would have found difficulty accomplishing these and countless other personal business matters.

Once a person is jailed or imprisoned, they must learn to face survival with the frustrations of their new institutionalized lifestyles. This alone is difficult. When compounded with the concern of their families' welfares, an inmate's outlook on life becomes very grim indeed.

Friends Outside has initiated several programs to help inmates develop self-esteem, motivation, and productivity.

"Jail Interviews are perhaps one of Friends Outside's most important programs," Pat Edwards, family service director said. "It is through these interviews that inmates open up and tell us of their needs and their concerns for their families. We then do our best to fulfill both the inmate's and his family's needs.

(She explained that in most cases, it was the male offenders with dependants that needed Friends Outside assistance. The majority of women inmates make prior provisions for their families while they are confined.)

OFTEN, Friends Outside fulfills an inmate's most basic needs. In one instance, an inmate's false teeth had fallen into a pair of shoes which were impounded as evidence in an arson case. Consequently, he was unable to eat in jail. Friends Outside intervened to get the teeth back.

"Friends Outside does for inmates what they just simply cannot do for themselves," Pat said. "We'll do everything from contacting attorneys to getting their glasses repaired for them."

EDITOR'S NOTE: If you are interested in Friends Outside, or participating in the "Christmas Box" project, you can call 295-6033. Or, better yet, visit their headquarters office, located at 712 Elm Street, San Jose.

Here a Friends Outside Jail Interviewer quickly goes over some paperwork with inmates in their dorm area before the 3 p.m. headcount is taken. Pictured behind the volunteer is Barbara Haggerty. Seated from left to right is Evangeline Bradford, Geraldine Dutra, and Esmeralda Lopez.

New first aid training

Campbell students could be saving lives soon

Plenty of help is on the way for Campbell area victims of heart attacks, drowning, choking.

First groups of the 3,000 Campbell Union High School District students being trained this year in first aid, CPR (coronary-pulmonary resuscitation) and the abdominal thrust technique to aid victims of choking, will receive Red Cross certificates this month for successful completion of their lifesaving training.

Starting with this fall's classes, all sophomores in the district's eight schools are required to take the special life saving training as part of their health education class.

"That means that each year more than 3,000 Campbell district students and teachers will be qualified in the special first aid skills," said Haskell Bowen, district physical education and health education supervisor.

Advanced instructor training certificates have been awarded by the Red Cross to Bruce Samples, Westmont High School health education instructor who heads up the district program in CPR instruction. The certificates authorize Samples to present instructor courses in CPR and first aid to teachers in the Campbell district and neighboring area schools.

The state educational code for health education courses was changed last year to include compulsory first air training and optional CPR training if equipment was available.

The Board of Trustees voted to purchase approximately $5,000 worth of equipment including eight adult sized mannequins with gauges, six mannequin babies, two anatomical adult mannequins that show how the heart and lungs react to CPR, two films on artificial respiration, two films on first aid for choking victims, and classroom sets of CPR workbooks.

The equipment is being divided among the eight district schools so each one will have enough to meet class needs. The CPR training takes approximately one month, said Samples.

The board also felt it was important for teachers in physical education, drivers' education, health education and coaching to have the first aid-CPR training.

Seventy-five district teachers have taken the training courses. Thirty of the teachers took additional work to qualify as instructors.

"We are training more teachers this year," said Samples. Classes are being held, for example, at Leigh and Campbell High Schools where the goal is to train every faculty member.

A part of the program is retraining and recertification, said Samples. "Once learned, CPR skills are never forgotten," he said. However, he added, recertification is required after the first year and each three years thereafter to maintain a valid Red Cross certificate.

Gift making class for youngsters set

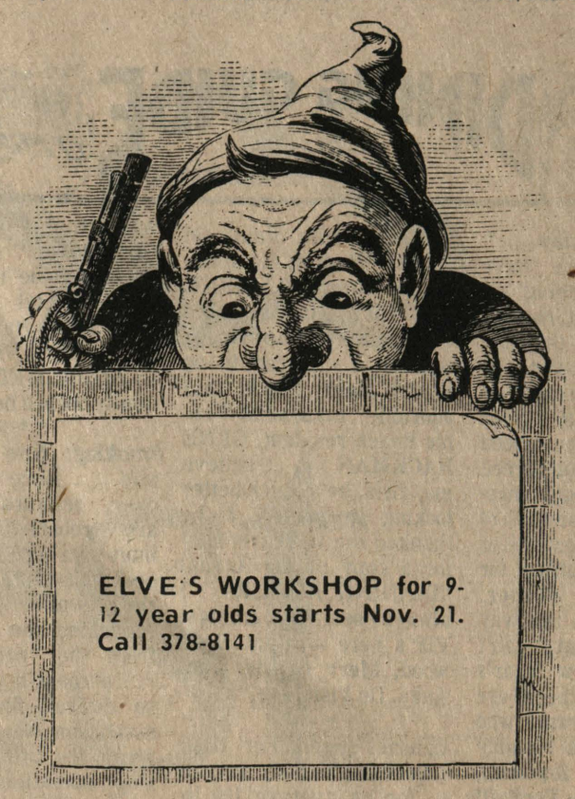
Do-it-yourself present making for the 9 through 12 year old set is being offered starting next week by Campbell Community Services.

Two Elve's Workshops are planned this year. The first will be held on Tuesdays at Campbell Junior High School from November 21 through December 12.

Dover School will host the Wednesday afternoon sessions which run from November 22 through December 13.

Both classes are from 3:30 to 5 p.m. and the fee is $5.

For information or sign-ups call Joe Dazzo at 378-8141, ext. 252 weekdays.



After four years

Office building plans get the nod

After almost four years of delays, plans for an office building in downtown Campbell got the nod from planning commissioners last week. Final approval is up to the City Council.

Campbell Building and Investment Company, Inc., first submitted plans for a 2,100 square foot office building at 54 N. Central ave. in 1974. Talk was underway at that time about a possible downtown parking district so a decision on that project was delayed again and again. The building, if approved, will be 15 feet from the north loop street (Civic Center drive) and plans call for preserving the two mature redwood trees near Central avenue.

Planning commissioners unanimously recommended approval of the project.

In other action last week the commission:

• Unanimously voted to deny off-site directional signs for liquidation sales to be held at 85 S. Second st.

• Approved plans for an office addition to an industrial building at 1551 Dell ave. by Chester Yanik and Deluxe Check Printers.

• Recommended approval of a use permit to Ronald Peck and Brondon Corporation for valet parking on property at 36 S. Second st. Commissioner J. Duwayne Dickson voted "no" on the motion.

• Unanimously recommended denial of plans by Carlos and Maria Perfecto to construct two residential units at the rear of property at 109 S. Sourth st.

• Recommended approval of plans by R. M. Kulick to construct six townhomes on property at 1189 Bracebridge court.

• Continued at the request of applicant Thomas Jackson a review of plans for the addition of five single-family homes on an existing two-unit development at 1428 and 1440 W. Hacienda ave.

Are you among the missing?

If you were a member of the Campbell High School graduating class of 1953 and haven't heard from the reunion committee . . . they'd like to hear from you.

The 25th reunion is planned for November 24 at the Los Gatos Elks Club.

The dinner-dance is $15 for singles and $26 for couples and includes the cost of a pictoral yearbook.

If you are one of the "55 missing graduates" or know where one is, contact Alice Jones Farnham at 377-3572.

Rail-bus-road plan to be unveiled / Transportation 1990 - the future is here

GETTING to work in Santa Clara County sometimes feels like Excedrin Headache #20, as cars back up, tempers flare and nerves frazzle.

But a futuristic solution will be unveiled this week when the Metropolitan Transit Commission (MTC) and the Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG) take the wraps off a long-awaited "corridor study" which blueprints a way out of the 1990 transportation nightmare.

The transportation plan, which will be released to the public at 10 a.m. on Wednesday during a San Jose City Hall meeting of the ABAG/MTC Joint Policy Committee, is just one element of a broad 1990 land-use master plan, which attempts to tie housing to jobs.

However, the multi-million dollar transportation element assumes the greatest importance. It calls for four interlocking elements:

- A 10-12 mile stretch of light rail running from the IBM plant into San Jose's downtown Civic Center area, connecting with the Southern Pacific Depot. Estimated cost: between $120-$150 million.
- A highway building program, which would provide $150-$180 million worth of new road construction.
- Totally updated Southern Pacific commute service up and down the Peninsula, with new stations and more trains. Cost $50 million.
- Increasing the bus fleet to 750 buses and adding an express bus fleet. Cost $40-$50 million just for the new buses.

Called "the transportation system for the future," it's the first tangible blueprint for Santa Clara Valley transportation and it comes after years of wait and millions spent on study.

County Supervisor Rod Diridon, one of the engineers of the document, stresses it's in draft form. The corridor study will travel to the Board of Supervisors and to City Councils in various cities for comment. A final plan is expected by early February.

Diridon says mass transit can be built with "currently identified revenue between now and 1990 — no expected tax increase."

Much of the funding for light rail will come from the federal Mass Transit Act, which provides 80 per cent matching funding for certain transportation projects. The local 20 per cent match has already been raised by a self-imposed countywide ½ cent transit tax. New highways

One of the most far-reaching elements of the transit plan is that the West Valley Corridor will be reclaimed for public ownership. The land that is now currently in the public domain will be purchased, although there are no immediate plans to construct a freeway. "We'll protect it," says Diridon, "so we can use it in the future."

OTHER PLANNED highway construction includes: an Alum Rock overpass at Highway 101, expanding 101 to six lanes, extending the Guadalupe Expressway to Almaden Expressway, extension of Highway 85 to Highway 9, lane expansion on Highways 280, 101 and 17 and upgrading Highway 237 to freeway status.

DINING GUIDE

as recommended by Bea René

"Never on Monday ..." How many ladies have planned a "big evening" on the town or a quiet, romantic dinner beside the fireplace, only to discover — to your utter amazement — that you are not the center of attraction . . . no, indeed — it is the television screen that keeps your guy mesmerized & a handful of potato chips & a convenient dip will often suffice for your gourmet dinner. There is help on the way . . . remember that it can't last forever (New Year's Day?), & also there are plenty of restaurants who capitalize on this Monday Night Event by featuring special Mon. Nite Football specials served right in front of a big screen in the bar. I couldn't possibly name all of them here, but really it isn't so bad after all . . . as they say in the locker room, "If you can't fight 'em — give up!" — or, better still, here's a great time to get that early Christmas shopping done, with nary a complaint from the dear boy when you lighten his wallet.

* * *

Diet Tips from the Stars: Zsa Zsa Gabor steers clear of red meat . . . Joan Collins eats just tomatoes & eggs . . . Marion Ross (Mrs. Cunningham on TV's "Happy Days") relies on an old Mayo Clinic diet of a half grapefruit & hard boiled egg in the A.M., at noon two more hard boiled eggs and a whole grapefruit . . . the famed Weightwatchers recommend omitting white flour & refined sugar to maintain weight loss — really not too difficult. What are your diet tips?

Recently while dining on Cannery Row in Monterey at the famed SARDINE FACTORY (in the elite Captain's Room, of course), I chanced to be seated right beside that adorable man/actor/Pebble Beach resident, GENE HACKMAN . . . believe me, girls, he's much better looking in person, & he thanked me so charmingly for a copy of my Annual "DINNING AFFAIRS." I always see the greatest VIP's here — Clint Eastwood, Merv Griffin, Paul Anka. Do Visit here.

Calories Used Per Hour (according to body weight) — for an average 120 lb. person: Sleeping 52 calories, Singing 95 calories, Ironing 112 calories, slow walking 156 calories, Swimming 390 calories.

* * *

Dining Around: Can someone tell me the best place to order Paella? The two sources that I recommended have gone out of business . . . ANGELO'S Restaurant offers "Sunset Dinners" for only $4.45 with 24 gourmet entrees (he'll be surprising you with a special drawing to enable you to enjoy perhaps Las Vegas . . . more next week) . . . Dancing nightly in the 18th Floor Lounge of SEBASTIANS . . . looking for something really unique? Try THE GYPSY CELLAR (Middlefield Rd., RWC) Mid-European cuisine with lovely Gypsy violin & piano music to serenade you . . . Excellent New Mexican food at MAMA NEY'S (El Camino, Los Altos) — a true family "affair" . . . The BARBAROSSA serves the new French La Nouvelle cuisine in their Atherton Continental restaurant . . . A good dining out value is the $3.25 lunch special at PRIME RIB INN, Palo Alto — handsome piano star CLAUDIO MEDEIROS recently opened here . . .

* * *

Smoking: Now it can be told . . . since election is over, restaurant owners are probably heaving a huge sign of relief . . . they could only fantasize on how they would go about separating the "smokers" from the "non-smokers" . . . perhaps it wouldn't be so difficult for a larger establishment, but what about the little "Mom & Pop" operations? It really poses a dilemma — I know the last time I flew, I decided to sit in the smoking section (tho I do not smoke), simply because on the way over to Hawaii, the non-smoking section was filled with lots of crying babies, kids & L.O.L's — had an awful time. Therefore, when I chose the smoking section coming back, guess who sits next to me . . . a cute L.O.L. who seated herself amidst all her leis & pineapples, & promptly "lit up" . . . she smoked all the way across the ocean . . . so, you see, folks, you can't win — no matter what you try! (So let's grin & bear it!)

New National Smoker Study:

Merit Taste Impresses Toughest Critics.

'Enriched Flavor'™ tobacco proved satisfying even to high tar smokers in latest research.

What do smokers of high tar cigarettes—the toughest taste critics of low tar smoking—have to say about low tar MERIT?

Read what they thought in a new, nationwide research effort:

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers rate MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading high tar cigarettes tested! Cigarettes having up to twice the tar.

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT.

And current MERIT smokers reported:

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT smokers say it was an "easy switch" from high tar brands.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed!

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT smokers not considering other brands.

This ability to satisfy over long periods of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT is the first real taste alternative for high tar smokers.

Kings: 8 mg "tar," 0.6 mg nicotine—
100's: 11 mg "tar," 0.7 mg nicotine av. per cigarette, FTC Report May '78

Spread some of that loving around, Leo

ARIES (Mar. 20-Apr. 19): Stop dwelling on the past, Ari. After all, we all have perfect vision when it comes to hindsight. Use energy to make most of today. Before week is kaput you discover that your world is not such a bad old place after all.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 - May 20): You take inward journey and discover capacity for experiencing life that you didn't know you possessed. Miracles still happen, Taurus, and when we least expect them. Bon Voyage!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Information fed to you should be studied carefully. One who does the feeding is apt to tailor truth to suit self. Do some private probing, Gem, before you swallow.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): Feel as though you're hanging on to the world of reality with your fingernails? Help is closer than you think, Moonbaby. Grab some dimes, head for the nearest pay telephone and start dialing. Intuition whispers the correct number. Week ends with important new connection.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): Concentrate on showing genuine affection for family, friends and daily associates. You have a great big heart, Leo, with love that's as rich and nourishing as country butter — so come on, spread it around.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): You certainly have a way with words, Virgo, but there is a very fine line which separates blithe from blithering. Run off at the mouth this week and you cross over. Last day ends on key of B for boo-boo.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Personal relationship undergoes subtle change. Keep calm. Flailing your arms and gnashing your teeth will accomplish naught. By last day, Libra, you understand that love is an open hand — not a clenched fist.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Don't put your head on chopping block unless you're prepared to have blade fall. Your martyr role is something less than intelligent, Scorp, so cut it out. Fools are no longer fashionable.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Happy Birthday Saj! You are jovial, versatile, open-minded, philosophical, sincere, frank, dependable, freedom-loving and sassy. You are also tactless, restless, careless, boisterous, irresponsible, foolishly optimistic and ornery. You can't stand fences — especially emotional ones. You usually have more than one iron in the fire and often hold two jobs. You need an above-average amount of physical and intellectual exercise and when you think you are tired you are usually just bored. Your partner must be sexually inventive and intellectually your equal. Year ahead offers challenge and mystery. You grow.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Crisis looms, You cannot hide from it, Cap, so face it head on. With a little bit of luck and a whole bunch of patience you make it through week — but just by the hair of your chinny-chin-chin.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19): Nature speaks to you in universally understood language and logjam of communication ends. Whew! Hidden desire surfaces as week bangs to a hectic fini.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Pride is one of the Seven Deadly Sins, Pisces, so don't let it keep you from making first move toward long-overdue reconciliation. Week of changes ends with a promise.

The best in local news — that's our business. We're the Meredith SUN newspapers.

Does your group need publicity?

Here's how to get it in the Meredith SUN papers:

All our community newspapers welcome items about upcoming events, from bazaars to fashion shows, from meetings to Scout news, from school plays to neighborhood news. Since all of our papers serve a LOCAL audience, we ask that you submit your news releases (black- and-white photos are most welcome, too!) to the appropriate LOCAL paper.

Deadline? It's best to get your materials in A WEEK BEFORE the issue you'd like the notice to appear in, so the editor has time to process it properly. (Most papers published Tuesday or Wednesday.)

Where to send notices and photos:

For the North, East, South, Almaden and San Jose SUNS: to Tom Gilsenan, editor, P.O. Box 829, Milpitas, Ca. 95035, or drop it off at 615 S. Main St., Milpitas.

For the Campbell Press: to Pat Safford, editor, same address as above.

* * *

For the Cupertino Courier and Sunnyvale Scribe: to Sue Beving, editor, P.O. Box 368, Cupertino, Ca. 95014, or drop it off at 10950 N. Blaney, Cupertino.

For the Santa Clara SUN: to Carolyn Leal, editor, same address as above.

* * *

For the Los Altos Town Crier and Mountain View SUN: to Tuck Shepherd, editor, Drawer F, Los Altos, Ca. 94022, or drop it off at 354 Second Street, Los Altos.

* * *

For the Los Gatos Times-Observer (published Tuesday and Friday): to Sue LaForge, editor, 114 Royce St., Los Gatos, Ca. 95030

* * *

* * *

For the SPORTS pages: to Dick Sparrer, sports editor, P.O. Box 829, Milpitas Ca. 95035, or drop it off at 615 S. Main St., Milpitas.

* * *

"But how can I get it in ALL your papers?"

For reasons of space as well as local relevance, we must run most publicity material in the individual paper or few papers where your group is based.

The exception is our entertainment calendar which runs in most of our papers each week. Community theatrical events, college drama presentations, community musicals, plays, and related events within Santa Clara County make up our calendar listing.

Send calendar items to Wilma Albrecht, P.O. Box 368, Cupertino 95014, or drop them off at 10950 N. Blaney Ave., Cupertino, a week before your desired publication date.

Symphony's glittering ball

A glittering New Year's Eve Viennese Ball — "the most elegant social event the Santa Clara Valley has ever seen!," will be held in the covered mall at Vallco Fashion Park in Cupertino, it has been announced by San Jose Symphony General Manager Richard H. Wright.

Chief attraction, according to Wright, will be a one-hour concert by Vienna-born Maestro George Cleve and 40 members of the San Jose Symphony orchestra.

In addition, there will be a sumptuously catered dinner, a continuous flow of free champagne, and dancing until dawn of the New Year.

Cost is $75 per couple. Wright says the celebration, which is limited to just 400 guests plus orchestras, has "already set the phones ringing off the wall" at the symphony office. Those wishing to make reservations should call 287-7383.

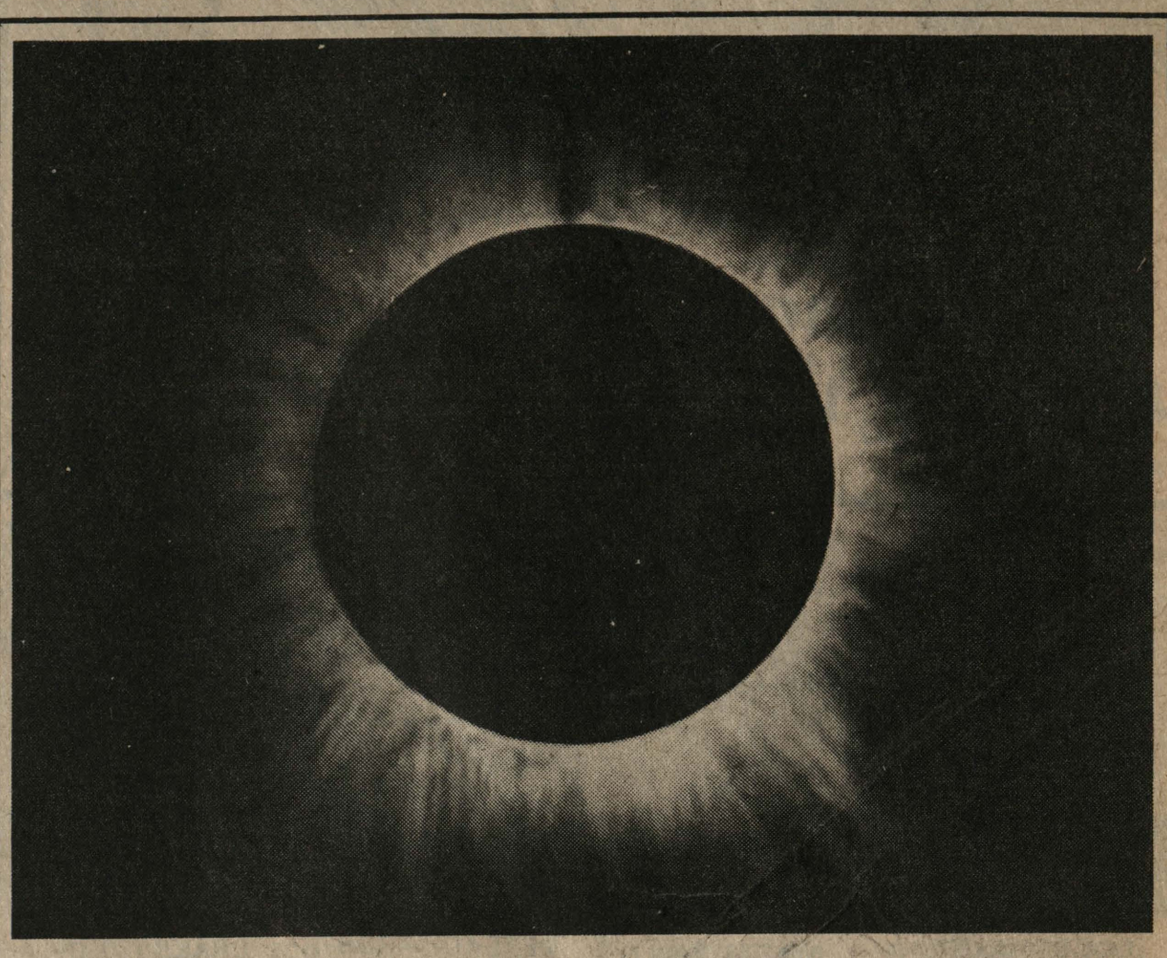
For tickets or more information, call 354-6051 or write to: Ming Quong, P.O. Box 770, Los Gatos, CA. 95030.



Four things most people are in the dark about concerning solar energy.

1. "Solar energy is simple." True, when used as a heat source. Solar energy is already heating water and space. In fact, right now PG&E is involved in over 80 solar projects to help Californians make better use of these heating systems. But conversion of sunlight to electricity is something else again. Conversion systems are complex, and vast amounts of land would be required. For example, it would take more than 20 square miles for a solar plant producing as much electricity as a new coal-, oil-, or nuclear-fueled plant occupying less than one square mile.

2. "Solar energy is cheap." For warming yourself or some water, or even your house, yes–after the initial installation cost, which can be high. But for electricity, not so. Because of the tremendous technological challenges involved, experimental solar projects have not so far been able to convert the sun's energy into electricity in an efficient and affordable way for large scale use.

3. "Power companies, like PG&E, are deliberately blocking solar development." Quite the contrary. In addition to the 80 solar heating projects we're involved in, PG&E is supporting industry-wide research on solar electricity. PG&E is also a partner in building an experimental sunlight-to-electricity plant using advanced technology that will produce a small amount of power by the early 1980's. But the cost of this electricity will be about 30 times as much as that from a new conventional plant. So while we're working to develop solar electricity as soon as possible, it doesn't offer the solution to the power needs of the next 10-15 years.

4. "Solar electricity is imminent." According to government estimates, even by the end of the century, the sun will provide no more than 10% of our electric needs.

In the meantime, we must make the best use of power sources already available. Conservation will help – it's the fastest, cleanest and often the cheapest way to reduce the need for more power plants. But conservation alone is not enough. To meet the increasing needs of the 1980's, we will need government approvals to build conventional plants that use existing energy sources.

If you have any questions about Solar Energy, write PG&E, Box 3728, San Francisco, CA 94106.

Until solar electricity is ready, we must build other kinds of power plants.

Consumers corner

Avoiding the lemons in the used-car lot

Send all mail for this column to Consumers United, P.O. Box 311, Palo Alto, Ca 94302, or call 494-1858 for consumer advice.

We are in the used car market and would like to know what some of the cars to avoid are. Good information is hard to come by and we trust Consumers United because of the past help you have afforded us.

Our requirements are as follows: $2,000 to $2,500 price range, good economy, small size and relative dependability. Your advice, please.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Levin,
Morgan Hill

Our advice is based on constantly updated statistics, distilled for your buying advantage in the car market.

First, within your outline: The best three used vehicles are — Volkswagen Bug, Ford Pinto with the four cyl. engine and no power options, and the Toyota, also with no power options. The Pinto should have the retrofitting to make it safer in a collision situation.

Any of these cars should be checked out thoroughly as to mechanical condition prior to purchase. The cars to avoid are the Mazda with the rotary engine, the Fiat, Chevette, Opel, Austin, post 1968 Volvos, Alpha Romeo Triumph, M.G., 1975 VW Rabbit, and above all, the Vega or any of its G.M. counterparts.

You still may get history's all-time lemon, but now you have a distinct statistical advantage. Purchase a car that has complete maintenance records and relatively low mileage and the odds of satisfaction will favor you.

This information will probably drive a number of used car dealers up the wall but we hope it will help the individual buyer. As you have noticed from the foregoing, simplicity is the key word. A car with minimal power options is a car that gives better mileage and isn't in the shop all the time.

I'm everlastingly sick of the problems I have in commuting on crowded streets and highways. I've existed through some of the craziest attempts at public transportation ever developed by an insane bureaucracy, Dial-a-Ride being one of these. Does Consumers United see any way out of the "How to get to work at an affordable price" problem?

Diane Steeples,
San Jose

No! Mass transit in our area is slow, doesn't give door to door service (inherently, it can't), often doesn't offer security or even a seat and can't operate on an immediately available basis, day and night. Therefore, it can't attract people out of their cars on a cost-effective, high volume basis.

Relatively well off people tend to use superior forms of transportation — their cars — and it takes a lot of seducing to break this habit.

Mass transit has an advantage of being cheaper for the user, but this is the on-the-surface-only, false price. Mass transit has to be subsidized and the price is at least two thirds higher per passenger mile than private passenger car use. In order to attract users, the subsidized system must charge less to the user than their car operations cost.

No way out of your problem, Dianne.

A few upsets

At the polls, 'incumbent' meant 'winner'–in most cases

By JEFF MOAD

Santa Clara County voters Tuesday returned to office most of their incumbent legislators but selected new faces for county sheriff, assessor and District 1 supervisor.

Winning reelection by large margins were Congressmen Don Edwards (D-10th District) and Paul McCloskey (R-12th District). Edwards captured 67.1 percent of the vote compared to 32.9 percent for his Republican opponent Rudy Hansen.

McCloskey regained the office to which he was first elected in 1967, this time with a whopping 73.1 percent of the vote. His closest opponent, Democrat Kirsten Olsen, captured 21.5 percent.

Congressman Norman Mineta captured his third assignment to Washington, but his victory over Republican challenger, Cupertino Councilman Daniel O'Keefe, was by a slimmer margin. Mineta collected 57.5 percent of the vote to O'Keefe's 39.5 percent.

Incumbents fared equally well in most races for the state legislature, except in the North County's 10th State Senate District where Democratic incumbent Arlen Gregorio was pushed to a near-dead heat by well-financed Republican challenger Marz Garcia.

After votes from all but two precincts and late absentee ballots were counted Tuesday night, Gregorio held a slim, 39-vote lead. Thursday, 1,100 absentee ballots were counted, and Garcia climbed to within six votes of Gregorio, who is seeking his third term.

Some 600 votes from two delinquent San Mateo County precincts remain to be counted, and final, official results were not expected to be announced before Nov. 28. The loser is expected to demand a recount.

Things were less hectic in the 12th State Senate District where incumbent Democrat Jerry Smith scored an impressive 61.2 percent to 38.8 percent victory over Republican opponent Clark Bradley, a political comeback candidate. Smith first won the seat from Bradley four years ago.

Incumbents scored victories in all five State Assembly District seats up for grabs in the county. In the 21st Assembly District, Democrat Victor Calvo was returned to office for a third term, defeating Republican hopeful Greg Morris by a 53.8-percent to 46.2-percent spread. Morris is a Sunnyvale councilman.

Campbell City Councilman Rusty Hammer also failed to unseat his incumbent opponent, Republican Richard Hayden, in the 22nd Assembly District. Hayden, first elected in 1970, captured 52.8 percent of the vote to Hammer's 43.3 percent. The rest went to American Independent Party candidate Max Kernaghan.

Incumbent Democrats John Vasconcellos (23rd District), Leona Egeland (24th District) and Alister McAlister (25th District) all swamped Assembly opponents. Vasconcellos pulled 62.4 percent of the vote to 37.6 percent for his Republican opponent Lynn Knapp. Egeland dominated Republican Jack Sandoval with 66.4 percent of the vote, and McAlister collected 65.4 percent of the vote to 34.6 percent for Republican and golf pro Carl Bocchini.

Countywide, 71.7 percent of the total eligible voters went to the polls. Prior to election day, Registrar of Voters officials predicted a county-wide turnout of over 80 percent.

The relatively light voter turnout worked in favor of sheriff candidate Lt. Robert Winter who unseated eight-year incumbent James Geary with an aggressive campaign supported by the Santa Clara County Deputy Sheriffs Association and statewide law enforcement groups. Winter, who will take over the sheriff's duties Dec. 1, claimed 59.8 percent of the vote to Geary's 40.2 percent.

Winter had bested a large field of Geary challengers in the June primary to climb into Tuesday's runoff.

In the District 1 Supervisor race, San Jose Vice Mayor Susanne Wilson chalked up strong support in South San Jose, Almaden Valley and Los Gatos to defeat South County Realtor Ivan Zubow, a first-time political candidate. Wilson, to replace resigning Supervisor Sig Sanchez, collected 56.1 percent of the vote to Zubow's 43.9 percent.

Wilson and Zubow had differed sharply on the land use issue, with Wilson supporting the current 20-acre minimum lot split in the unincorporated areas of the county, and Zubow adamantly opposed. Zubow and Wilson were the two top vote-getters in the June primary which included 15 supervisorial candidates.

In the other race for county office, Assistant County Assessor Alfred E. Carlson squeeked out a victory over National Semiconductor auditor Ernie Konnyu for the county assessor post. Carlson topped Konnyu by just over 11,000 votes, a 51.7-percent to 48.3-percent advantage.

Panthers stun Wildcats 15-13

By RANDY FREY

LOS GATOS high school received the shock of its life Thursday afternoon when Prospect jumped out to a 15-0 lead and held on to beat the previously unbeaten Wildcats 15-13.

And the win was no fluke.

Of course the Panthers were helped by 15 Los Gatos penalties, eight for 15 yards, but when Los Gatos needed to shut down the Panters' offense they simply could not do it.

"Those running backs are very good," said Los Gatos coach Charlie Wedemeyer, referring to Dave Maloney and Randy Chase.

"We had chances to win the game but we couldn't get the ball back in the second half," Wedemeyer said.

A win would have assured Los Gatos of a Central Coast Section playoff spot, but now the Cats must beat Campbell Friday night if they want to participate in post-season play.

Prospect can still play a major role in deciding who will represent the West Valley Athletic League in post-season competition, the Panthers playing co-leader Branham Friday at Branham. Earl Adams and his Panthers will be looking for their fourth straight win.

Prospect jumped to a quick 7-0 lead in the opening period when Maloney threw an option pass to Bill Haynes for a 24-yard touchdown. Phil Rebboah booted the point-after.

ON THE ENSUING kick-off, Los Gatos' Jeff Petulla romped 95 yards for a touchdown, but the play was called back because of a clip 30 yards behind the action.

Prospect got the ball back when Rebboah intercepted a Kent Gerber pass, and 12 plays later the Panthers were in the endzone again.

Quarterback Jim Douglas passed 11 yards to Jim Harrigan to move the ball to midfield before Maloney and Chase went to work on the ground.

Chase carries five times for 28 yards and Maloney carried three times for 20 yards, including a five-yard touchdown burst.

The Panthers then elected to go for the two-point conversion, but the pass failed. A personal foul penalty against Los Gatos gave Prospect another chance, and this time Chase ran it in to give the Panthers a 15-0 lead.

As time ran out in the half Los Gatos got on the board, Jeff Pettula covering the final 14 yards on five running plays. His score was set up on two Gerber passes to brother Drew Petulla, one for 19 yards and the other for 20 yards.

The Wildcats then took the second half kick and drove for another score, Jeff Petulla carrying nine times on the drive for 42 yards.

But Los Gatos now needed the ball to win the game, their extra-point kick still leaving them two points behind. Prospect, however, did not co-operate.

The Panthers proceeded to use up the rest of the third-quarter clock and a little of the fourth-quarter time as they drove 62 yards on 16 plays.

PROSPECT DIDN'T score, but it had done its job. Los Gatos was now 89 yards away from the endzone.

Gerber quickly passed 38 yards to Drew Petulla to get the Cats out of the hole, and brother Jeff ran the ball three times down to the Prospect 25.

A clip, however, moved the ball back 15 yards and Gerber was then intercepted by Mark Anderson.

Los Gatos got another chance when it drove to the Prospect 37, but on a fourth down play Petulla was stopped short and the Panthers took over on downs.

On its final possession, Los Gatos moved to the Prospect 36-yard line before a holding penalty moved them back. Tom Miotke then intercepted a Gerber pass, the fourth Prospect swipe of the day, and the game was over.

"We were sloppy today but Prospect went out there and beat us," said Wedemeyer. "Now we just have to concentrate on beating Campbell, although it would be nice to see Prospect win one more."

Maloney ended the game with 59 yards on 19 carries while Chase chalked up 69 yards on 22 carries.

Douglas completed four of 11 passes for 45 yards. He threw no interceptions.

Haynes caught three passes for 42 yards and one touchdown. Jim Harrigan caught two passes for 27 yards.

Prospect's season-ending game with Branham is set for 2:45 p.m. Friday at Branham.

Bucs-'Cats in 45th meeting

Title at stake in annual Los Gatos-Campbell clash

THANKSGIVING is a very traditional holiday in the Campbell area.

Many folks of the city go through the same routine each and every fourth Thursday of November. Of course there's the turkey, cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie, and then there's the good feeling of having the family together on that special day.

But in Campbell Thanksgiving usually starts a little differently than in other areas — it starts with a high school football game in the morning.

For years, Campbell has taken on its arch-rival, Los Gatos, in the granddaddy of all Turkey Day rivalries on Thanksgiving rivalry born way back in 1934.

But when the teams get together for the 45th renewal of that rivalry, tradition will be broken. The game won't be played on a Thanksgiving Day — it will be played on Friday night under the lights at Los Gatos' Helm Field.

Campbell and Los Gatos will battle it out Friday in an 8 p.m. West Valley Athletic League game on the Wildcat field.

THE GAME was moved up a week because Los Gatos is in the running for the WVAL championship and a win over Campbell will send the Wildcats into the Central Coast Section play-offs beginning the week of Thanksgiving.

Actually, it won't be the first time the teams have played on a day other than Thanksgiving. In 1974 the WVAL season ended the third week of November because of the CCS play-offs and the two teams met on a Saturday morning at Campbell high.

But it will mark the first time the two squads have ever met under the lights at Los Gatos.

The Wildcats come into the game with a 6-1 WVAL record and 7-2 overall mark. Los Gatos needs a win over the Bucaneers to secure the WVAL title and a play-off berth. in a rivalry like this one, records can be tossed out the window.

Buc quarterback Bob Greisinger will lead Campbell into action Friday, but offense shouldn't be much of a problem for the Bucs — defense shouldn't be much of a problem for the Bucs — defense will be their main concern.

"I expect to see just about anything from them," said Campbell boss Wayne Brooks. "They run a multiple offense."

"WE'RE going to have to stop (Jeff) Petulla and control the ball offensively," he added.

Petulla is the Cat's leading ball carrier on the season and has already scored 126 points for Los Gatos this fall on 20 touchdowns and three two-point conversions in nine games.

Kent Gerber can also go to the air to the likes of David Brock for Los Gatos. Gerber has pitched nine touchdown passes this fall and Brock has scored five times.

But Campbell should be able to match the Cats in the sky. Greisinger has flipped nine touchdown passes on the year and Jeff Melrose has added three.

Dave Erkkman leads Campbell scorers with five touchdowns this season and tight end Ken Schmidt has scored four.

Campbell is coming off of a 24-6 victory over Blackford and Los Gatos will try to rebound from a 15-13 loss to Prospect.

"If Prospect can do it, we can too," admitted Brooks looking ahead to Friday's game. "I feel we're as good a club as Prospect."

Campbell rips Braves

Defense enables Buccaneers to snap three game losing skein

IT HASN'T exactly been a banner season for the Campbell Buccaneers in 1978. But the Bucs, losers of five games so far, kept their hopes alive for a breakeven season last Thursday when they ripped the Blackford Braves 24-6.

The Bucs, who raised their overall record to 4-5 with the victory, can finish at the .500 mark with a win this Friday night against the arch rival Los Gatos Wildcats at LG. Game time for their 45th annual struggle is 8 p.m.

By upsetting the Wildcats, Campbell could possibly deprive their long-time rivals of the West Valley Athletic League championship.

Campbell snapped a three game losing streak with last week's win and raised its league record to 3-4.

"It was the best game we've played in about three weeks," said Campbell head coach Wayne Brooks. "We played much better."

THE BUCCANEER defense, led by linebacker Neal McGuire, was largely responsible for Campbell's victory last week.

"Our defense played extremely well," praised Brooks.

Strong safety Tim Ganz led the Bucs with 13 unassisted tackles and was in on three others in addition to recovering a fumble while linbackers Howard Hansen and McGuire were both in on 14 tackles.

The Campbell defense even produced a touchdown as Dave Erkman returned a fumble 10 yards for a score.

Erkman had two other touchdowns — a 45 yard run and a 105 yard interception return — nullified by Campbell penalties.

Quarterback Bob Greisinger sparked the Campbell offensive attack, meanwhile, with a pair of long touchdown passes.

Greisinger first fired a 37 yard TD pass to Ken Schmidt and later added a 40 yard bomb to tight end Kevin Bradley.

JACKIE MURDICK completed the Buccaneers' scoring with a one yard touchdown plunge.

Blackford, trailing 18-0 at the time, registered its lone touchdown in the third period on a one yard run by Paul Zamperine, capping a 55 yard drive.

Mike DeLaPena, who completed 12 of 19 passes on the day for over 190 yards, keyed the drive with a 15 yard swing pass to Larry Young.

C-M Pony league looks for managers

APPLICATIONS for managers for the 1979 season are now being accepted by the Campbell-Moreland Pony Baseball program, which operates leagues at four different age levels — Pony (13-14), Colt (15-16), Palomino (17-18) and Thorobred (19-21).

Applications for managers at each of these levels must be forwarded by Dec. 5 to Campbell-Moreland president George Ryan, 90 Hardy avenue, Campbell (phone number is 379-6417).

At present, the organization accommodates 15 teams, although it is prognosticated that the total will increase to 17 if the four-team Colt League expands to six teams next summer.

Last season marked Campbell's debut in Palomino competition. Only one team was entered, but there is a possibility that increased registration at this level may call for an additional Campbell team in 1979.

In any event, there is a serious need for managers and coaches — particularly at the Colt and Palomino levels. Anyone 18 or older is urged to contact Ryan as soon as possible, at least prior to Dec. 5.

The Colt division will undergo a drastic change in policy next summer, thanks to the last official action of the 1978 board. The number of players will be reduced to 13, mandatory playing innings similar to those adopted at the Pony level will be placed in effect and a set of guidelines will be constructed under the direction of newly elected Colt vice-president Ray Sargis.

Other news:

Signups — The board set dates for sign-ups for all levels of play. Newcomers and holdovers are required to register Saturdays, Jan. 27 and Feb. 3, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. More details will be available later.

Meetings — General meetings (everyone invited) will be held every other week throughout the remainder of the year. The next meeting is Tuesday, Nov. 21.

Winter League — Only one Saturday remains in the nine-week Pony Winter League. Members of all five Campbell teams will not be required to wear their uniforms on the final day, but will simply turn them in before their scheduled games on Nov. 18.

Clinic — This Sunday will mark the sixth week of an advanced batting clinic for graduating Pony Leaguers. Under the direction of Pete Middlekauff, a one-time Stanford All-American first baseman and a former professional player in both the Minnesota and Kansas City organizations. This invitational clinic was set up to provide ex-Pony players an opportunity to gain experience batting from the conventional 60-foot distance (Pony League distance from mound to plate is 54 feet). The class includes Paul Sargis, Bobby Straight, Scott Freear, Eric Crawford, John Murphy, Dominic Costantino, John Walsh and Mark Paquin.

Bruins top Dons 19-7

Branham jumps back into 1st place tie

By RANDY FREY

DEL MAR SCORED the first time it had the ball Thursday, but after that the Branham defense took command of the game.

Branham marched right back after Del Mar scored to tie the game, and the Bruins added two more touchdowns to roll to a 19-7 West Valley Athletic League victory.

The win moved Branham back into a first place tie with Los Gatos, both teams with 6-1 records.

Should Los Gatos lose to Campbell Friday and Branham beat Prospect, Branham will represent the WVAL in the upcoming Central Coast Section Playoffs.

Los Gatos, the lone hold out, joined the ranks of the beaten in the WVAL by losing to Prospect Thursday, 15-13.

"It was a very even game in the first half," said Branham coach Chuck Maraldo. "Del Mar moved the ball in the first half and we were lucky to get by with just seven points against us."

But in the second half the Dons were shut down, thanks largely to some adjustments made by Maraldo in the locker-room.

"They were calling some audibles in the first half but we adjusted to them in the second half," he said.

Del Mar coach Ron Leimbach said it was another case of nothing going right for his Dons.

"I felt we played good football but we made some mistakes in crucial situations," he said.

"All things that can go wrong have been going wrong this year," Leimbach said.

WITH THE SCORE tied at seven, Branham erupted for two touchdowns in the third quarter, both through the air.

The first came on a 35-yard pass from Al Juarez to Mark Triplett. The second came on a 40-yard option pass from Dan Monroe to Triplett.

"After we jumped to the two quick touchdowns they tried to go to the passing game," Maraldo said.

"Del Mar is a much better team than their record indicates," said the Branham coach. "They are a physical football team and they play good defense."

Del Mar pretty much shut off Branham's potent ground game. Triplett was held to just 54 yards on 14 carries. Vic Madden gained just 37 yards on five carries and Monroe 44 yards on 10 carries.

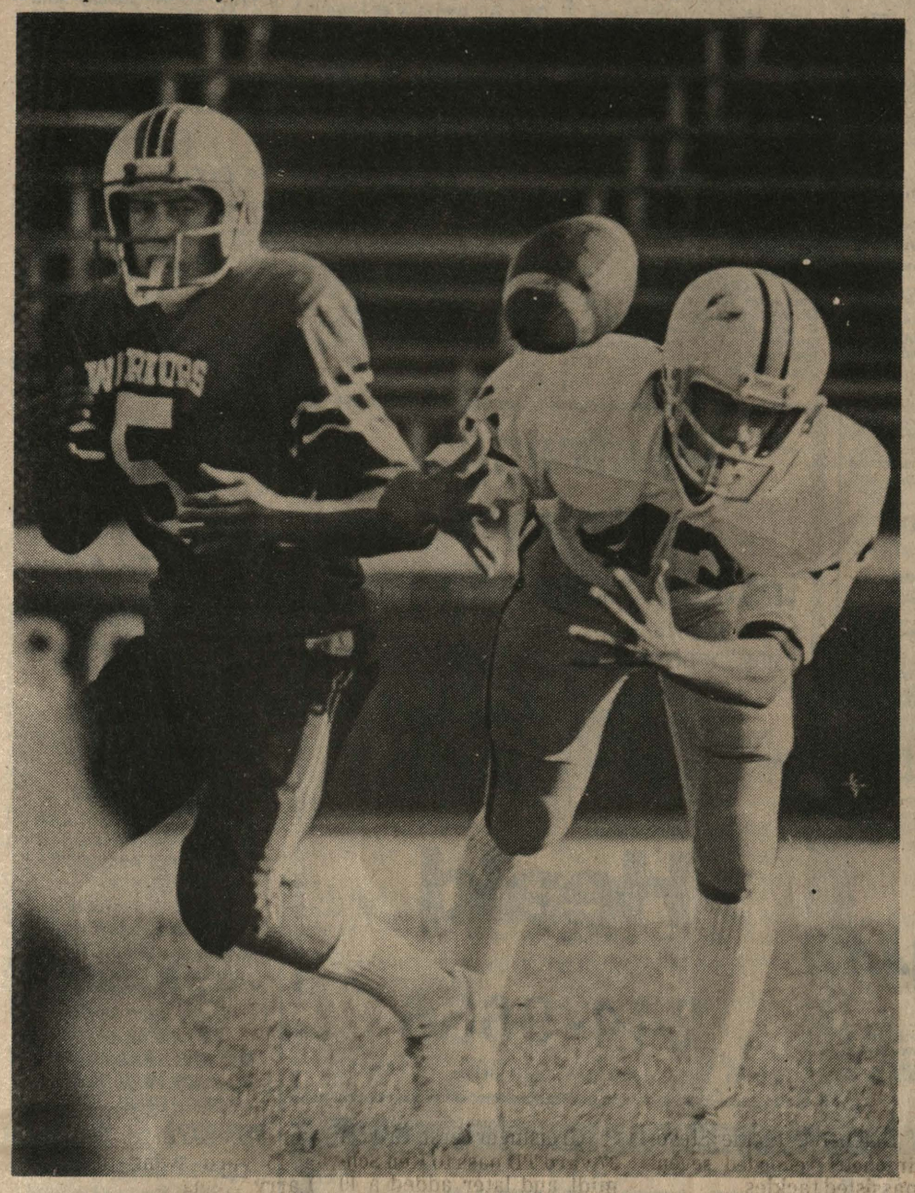
Del Mar did most of its damage through the air. Bruce Prothro completing 12 of 21 passes for 103 yards. Jim Holman caught five passes for 41 yards and Kendall Hansen caught five passes for 60 yards.

Defensively, Mark Webb led the Branham attack with 14 tackles. Maraldo also praised the defensive play of Madden, Al Painter, Rich Paparotti and Rob Durante.

Jeff Marone and Shedrick Chandler led the Del Mar defensive effort.

The loss dropped Del Mar's WVAL record to 2-5. The Dons will now play Camden Thanksgiving Day in its traditional homecoming game.

Branham, by virtue of Los Gatos' loss to Prospect, lost its Thanksgiving Day game and will conclude its season Friday with Prospect. Kick-off is 2:45 p.m. at Branham.



NO HANDLE — Players from Westmont and Del Mar surround this pass in WVAL play, but neither could find the handle when the two clubs met two weeks ago on the Warrior field. Neither team could find the handle to grab a victory last week either, the Dons losing to Branham and the Warriors falling to Sunnyvale.

Potent Warrior offense checked by Sunnyvale

WESTMONT'S potent offense, which has been tearing up West Valley Athletic League opponents in recent weeks, was no match for the Sunnyvale defense Thursday night in a non-league game.

The Warriors could manage only six points and were soundly beaten by the Jets, 28-6.

"They started out like a house of fire, and by the time we woke up it was too late," said Westmont coach Don Stagnaro.

"They ran the ball right down our throats," Stagnaro said. "We intercepted three passes but they just blew us out on the ground."

To be exact, Sunnyvale rolled up 392 yards rushing to Westmont's 37.

"They were a good ballclub," said Stagnaro of the team which ranks third in defense in the De Anza Athletic League.

"Their lineman are very quick, they out-speeded us from end to end," he said.

Sunnyvale jumped to a quick 14-0 lead in the first quarter, fullback Robbi Robinson capping two drives with one-yard bursts.

The Jets pulled to a 21-0 lead in the second quarter when Robinson scored his third touchdown of the night, a three-yard run.

WESTMONT closed the gap to 21-6 in the third period when Perry Lunt capped the Warriors' only scoring drive of the night with a three-yard run.

But all hopes of a comeback were dashed when Sunnyvale came right back to score on a 64-yard jaunt by back-up quarterback Mark Chenard.

Westmont quarterback Mike Grado, usually right on target with his passes, completed only two of 10 attempts for 57 yards. He had two passes picked off. Back up quarterback Bill Ebert completed two of 10 passes for 28 yards.

Tim Mooney had two pass receptions and Steve Moore and Lunt each had noe.

Defensively, Bill Stouffer came close to a school record when he was in on 26 tackles. Stagnaro also praised the defensive play of Greg Gorman and Rich Elson.

Westmont has a bye this week before playing Leigh in its traditional Thanksgiving Day game.

"Leigh has some good offensive skill people," said Stagnaro, "They'll have some tricks up their sleeve."

No matter who is favored, Stagnaro said it is always a close game. A win will enable the Warriors to finish third in the WVAL.

Campbell girls off to El Cajon

WHILE MOST OF the folks around Campbell will be kicking back with a tummy full of turkey and pumpkin pie on Thanksgiving Day, a group of girls in the area will be packing their bags and heading for the airport.

The Campbell Chargers will be taking off on Thanksgiving to compete in the IGS (International Girls Softball) National Tournament in El Cajon.

The chargers won the title in their local winter league with a 14-4 record to win the trip south for the National tourney, called the Turkey Trot Tournament. The tournament will run Nov. 24-26.

The local girls will compete in the tournament's upper division for 15-20 year olds, but still are in need of funds to make the trip. Persons interested in helping out can contact Charger manager Pauline Beltran at 454 Sobrato dr. in Campbell.

Members of the team headed to the National tourney include Monique Bautista, Christina Bergstrom, Lillian Beltran, Martha Beltran, Lindi Bock, Becky Cotton, Melody Elson, Jennie Ledesma, Tanya Mortensen, Robin Raffetto, Shelley Wedel, Robin Wilson, Lynda Guenther and Carol Clayton.

Coaches for the team are John Raffetto, Jim Martino and Rick Baldwin and Anne Baldwin is the assistant manager. Sylvia Raffetto is the team's business manager.

Summer champ upset by Peacock 9-7

STEVE PEACOCK Insurance upset summer league champ Killroy 9-7 last week in a Campbell adult softball men's B division game, knocking Killroy two games behind the league leading No Names.

Mike Tatikas drilled a home run to pace Steve Peacock's 14-hit attack. Ed Rodas and Mark Palacy chipped in with doubles.

Kal Dorr homered and Jim Lightner doubled twice for Killroy.

The No Names, meanwhile, outlasted the Bedlam Boys 16-10 behind the hitting of Bob, Frank and Tom Marotti.

Bob Marotti homered and both Frank and Tom Marotti belted two doubles apiece to lead a 25-hit No Names assault. Charlie Chamblet chipped in with a two bagger.

The Cosmos ripped Jordan Construction 17-10 with the aid of a 20-hit attack.

Los Gatos tabbed to cop title

THE FINAL round of the West Valley Athletic League football season begins this week and the prep predictors at this newspaper are looking for a perfect performance to cap a fine year.

The prep pickers were 3-2 last week to run our season record to 36-13 in the WVAL, good for a .735 average on the year.

And we're gunning for a 4-0 record in the final round of play to finish the year off right.

Two games will be played this week and two more will be played on Thanksgiving Day in the WVAL.

Prospect will visit Branham on Friday at 2:45 p.m. and Campbell will head to Los Gatos Friday at 8 p.m. in action this week. Los Gatos and Branham each have shots at the WVAL title and a spot in the play-offs, so had to give up their traditional Turkey Day games.
